A HISTORICAL SERMON

Delivered by Rev. Edwin Richardson Sunday Evening.

300th ANNIVERSARY

Planning for a Grand Assembly at Richmond, Virginia, Where the Sum of $1,000,000 will be Raised for Missions.

BISHOP OF LONDON WILL BE PRESENT

Sunday June 16th being the third Sunday after Trinity, was, by request of all the Bishops, marked by a Memorial Communion in every Episcopal Church in the United States.

The event so signally noted was the 300th anniversary of the first Communion of the Church in America which was celebrated at Jamestown, Virginia, the third Sunday after Trinity, June 21, 1607.

In St. John's as in all other parishes of the American Church, the identical service used on that memorable occasion was repeated. Miss Bradley had prepared special music which was well rendered by a full choir, and in a historical address the Rector, Rev. Edwin G. Richardson called attention to the following facts:

The earliest English emigration to America was a body of 108 men and two women, which in 7 vessels left Plymouth, England, Good Friday 1585 and after a voyage of 108 days landed at Roanoke, North Carolina.

This expedition sent out by Sir Walter Raleigh from a mixture of mercantile and missionary motives was a total failure on account of the quarrelsome nature of the ignorant and imprudent colonists, who were presently lost in the wilds or absorbed by intermarriage with several Indian tribes.

In this Colony was born the first white American child, Virginia Dare, a grand daughter of Raleigh; and one of the Colonists first discovered and made known to Europe those two great factors in civilization, tobacco and the potato.

The second English colony under the famous Captain John Smith, just returned from fighting the Turks near Constantinople was sent out by the Virginia company of London with the same purpose as the first colony, and in addition, with the hope of finding some trace of Raleigh's lost emigrants.

After a long voyage these pioneers landed at Jamestown, April 26, 1607, and started the first successful English settlement in America.

Their ship was in charge of Captain Newport and as Virginia was by grant a Royal colony then the civil laws of England were immediately in force while the Church of England was from the first established, that is, supported by a State tax.

The ships chaplain was a duly ordained clergyman, the Rev. Robert Hunt, and as soon as the Colonists had put up some shacks in which to live they built the first Episcopal Church in America, in which on the third Sunday after Trinity June 21, 1607, he celebrated that first Communion which we commemorate today. An eye witness has left this account of that primitive building:

"When I first went to Virginia I well remember we did hang an awning (which is an old sail) to three or four trees to shadow us from the sun, our walls were rails of wood; our pulpit a bar of wood nailed to two neighboring trees, in foul weather we shifted into an old rotten tent.

This was our church till we built a homely thing like a barn, set upon crutchets, covered with rafter sedge and earth; so was also the walls, the best of our houses of the like curiosity but the most part far more worse workmanship that could neither well defend wind nor rain, yet we had daily common prayer morning and evening, every Sunday two sermons, and every 3 months the Holy Communion till our minister died, but our prayers daily, on Sunday we continued two or three years afterwards (all more preachers came."

In this simple church their most famous convert, Pocahontas, daughter of the great Indian chief Powhatan, was baptized; she had been captured by the English and while held as hostage she fell in love with and married a widower, Mr. Jno. Rolfe who took her to England where she was entertained royally at the court of a Princess.

Being presented at Court she made a great sensation, and then retired to private life; dying at 22, mourned by all, she left one son from whom many of the first families of Virginia have descended.

By 1619 a third and better church was built on the same site, and a visitor that year thus describes it, and a service. "It is in length 3 score foot, in breadth 24, and shall have a chancel in it of cedar, and a communion table of the black walnut and all the pews of cedar. The Lord Governor doth cause it to be kept, passing sweet and trimmed up with divers flowers, and every Sunday when the Captain General goeth to Church he is accompanied with all the counsellors, captains, other officers, and all the gentlemen, with a guard of Halberdiers in his Lordships livery, fire red cloaks to the number of 50, both on each side and behind and being in the church his Lordship hath his seat in the Choir, in a green velvet chair, with cloth and a velvet cushion spread on a table before him, on which he kneeleth, and on each side sit the counsel, captains and officers.

In that church in the year 1619 was held the first assembly of the council of Virginia, that is the first representative body in the new world, so the men who laid the foundations of the Episcopal church of America were the very men also who laid the foundation of the United States.

They passed, indeed, some strange laws for example; if a man failed to attend services on Sunday he was fined 1 pound of tobacco, and for a months absence 50 pounds. The church wardens must keep a list of all the bad people in town while any critic of the minister was fined in tobacco a varying sum proportioned to the offence.

And by one of the ironies of life while the assembly was passing these and other absurd laws the Dutch ship "Jesse" brought to Jamestown and sold in open market, the first cargo of African slaves ever landed in America.

Headed by the Archbishop of Canterbury various English societies kept sending to the needy colonists Bibles, Prayer-books, Ministers, clothing, furniture and general household supplies; one such society actually undertook to furnish their wives at 100 pounds of tobacco apiece, and an old Custom House Record still exists showing that on a certain day the Collector of the Fort had received "Two shiploads of women in fair condition."

For 180 years after the founding of the Colony the Episcopalians having no Bishop in America were under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of London who sent in succession their representative and agents Commissioners Bay and Blair and other clergymen of note in the old Country. Dr. Bray founded in London to aid the colonists two famous societies which still exist and do splendid work namely, the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge, and the Society for the propagation of the Gospel in Foreign parts, which in fact is the oldest Protestant Missionary Society in the world while Dr. Blair made it unnecessary for the young men of Virginia to visit England for an education by founding the first church College, William and Mary in Williamsburg.

Next October the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America will meet in Richmond Virginia. All the Bishops will be present Clergy and Laity from all parts of the Union, godly women not a few, and headed by the great Bishop of London, representatives of the church will be in attendance from every quarter under heaven.

And on a set day this magnificent assembly will make a stately Pilgrimage to Jamestown and there on the very site of the first Episcopal Church in America, a solemn service will be held and the men's thank offering presented, which is a gift from all the Laymen of the church amounting to more than $1,000,000 for Domestic and Foreign Missions.

Big Picnic at Snow Shoe July 4th.

The people of Snow Shoe will celebrate the Fourth of July by holding a big picnic at the new driving park. While it will to a certain extent be a basket picnic ample provisions will be made to furnish both dinner and supper to all who may attend. The Snow Shoe coronet band will be present and furnish music the entire day, giving special concerts both morning and afternoon. One of the attractions will be a base ball game in the afternoon between Snow Shoe and Hawk Run. There will be dancing in the pavilion both afternoon and evening. There will also be a big display of fireworks in the evening. Every arrangement will be made to properly entertain the big crowd that is sure to be present.

CENTRE COUNTY FOLKS PICNIC

Spend a Happy Day in Old Time Picnic at Philadelphia.

CALL IT LITTLE IRELAND

Held by Centre County Natives who Make their Homes in the Quaker City.

IRA D. GARMAN AT THE HEAD

While Ira D. Garman, hailed generally as "Dick," hustled at the head of the "Willing Workers' Circle" of the Centre County Association at its basket picnic near Belmont Mansion Saturday afternoon, Dr. Roland G. Curtin, president, and General B. F. Fisher, most picturesque figure of the organization, boomed the job laughingly from the bench of honor.

Being a former Centre county resident now living in Philadelphia, the association includes members from adjoining counties.

Do more Centre county maidens spread the long tables, which the "Willing Workers" had commandeered from far and near. Then bustling, smiling Centre county matrons from the recesses of prodigious Centre county hampers brought Centre county bread, Centre county cake, Chicago and Philadelphia hams and good things enough to satisfy a brigade of epicures.

To the young men of the throng the matrons gave lemons, for your true Centre countian is up to date and an hour ahead. In due course, after much squeezing, the lemons made their appearance as lemonade in deep glass pitchers with long silvers of ice tinkling musical defiance to the brooding heat.

"IT'S TIME TO BEGIN."

More than 250 were in the celebrating crowd when William S. Forst, a lawyer made a megalophone of his hands and called out: "It's time to begin!"

The Rev. Dr. Robert Harkinson said grace and the feast was on.

It was the fourth affair the Centre County Association has given in the five years of its existence. Ira D. Garman, chairman of the committee that had Saturday's picnic in charge, is the founder of the organization. To his enthusiasm and hard work is due the present membership of whom are heads of families.

"Why are we here?" asked Dr. Roland G. Curtin quizzically. Dr. Curtin has just rounded out a long and useful term as president of the Philadelphia Medical Club. He is a first cousin of Pennsylvania's great war governor, Andrew Gregg Curtin, and a lineal descendant of another famous Centre countian and one of Pennsylvania's first representatives in the United States Senate, Andrew Gregg.

Before any one could reply to Mr. Curtin's question, he gave to it his version of an answer.

"We come to keep alive the neighborly spirit that grows in Centre county like the trees on Old Nittany Mountain and beauty in the women of our county," he said.

"We are exiles, and like exiles, look with affection back to the old home."

CALLS IT "LITTLE IRELAND."

Centre county may well be called the Little Ireland of Pennsylvania for several reasons. First, there is this affection for the place of our birth. Second, there is the remarkable fact that of all the counties in the state, Centre is the only one that showed a decrease in its population between 1890 and 1900. The decrease amounted to about 300.

"Again, like Ireland, this decrease was recorded in the face of the fact that Centre county does not know what race suicide means. The birth statistics show that we breed babies and sunny dispositions up in old Centre. Like Ireland, we breed fine men and women for the benefit of alien communities.

"The cause for the decrease in population is the lack of industries giving employment to men. In olden days we had iron furnaces and other industries. They have been closed for a generation. The only thing left is farming. The young men see no future in this, and have gone to the cities.

"As a consequence of this exodus Altoona and Pittsburg, as well as Philadelphia have been great gainers. In both these cities, flourishing Centre County

Associations similar to this are in existence.

TWO REUNIONS EACH YEAR.

The local association has two reunions every year. Forrest N. Mazee is its secretary and treasurer, and General Fisher, a gallant veteran of the Civil war, who made his escape from Libby prison through the famous tunnel, is its vice president.

The association takes pride in the history of its sons. Among the governors contributed by it have been the two Biglers, one a governor of California, the other of Pennsylvania; Hastings, Beaver, Cortin and Packer.

Several roll-calls were made. The names of those who answered to the first follow:

MR. GODFREY WILL LEAVE BELLEFONTE

Goes to Batavia New York—His Work a Success in Bellefonte

Perhaps the greatest surprise we have had in a long time was this morning when we opened a letter from Secretary C. N. Meserve in which he says Mr. Godfrey has just accepted a position as Physical Director at the Batavia Y. M. C. A. The same to take effect September 1st. The main reason for Mr. Godfrey leaving Bellefonte and going into New York State is that he wishes to be nearer his parents who live at Buffalo and who are getting old. We will feel the loss of Mr. Godfrey very keenly as he has sort of worked himself into the hearts of the young men in the town and won their highest esteem and friendship. His proven himself a professional instructor in all matters pertaining to the physical work. He has been wonderfully successful the past year in this department of the work and has brought it up to a high standard and now ranks among the best gymnasiums in the State. Mr. Godfrey is not only an excellent physical instructor, but a God fearing man, who delights in doing the Master's work in every way possible. He is a splendid pianist and vocalist and through his efforts the Young Men's Glee Club was organized which has proven a success. We don't like to have Mr. Godfrey go away, but if he can better himself financially and be nearer his parents, we don't feel like insisting on him staying, so wherever he goes and whatever he is called on to do we wish him unbounded success. Our loss will be Batavia's gain.

EMANUEL BROWN DEAD.

Passed Away at the Home of his Daughter, Mrs. J. A. Fiedler.

Emanuel Brown died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. A. Fiedler, 151 Market street, Williamsport, at ten o'clock Monday forenoon, after an illness of some time from a complication of diseases, the principal of which was stomach trouble. He was aged seventy-two years and two days.

The deceased was born and lived in Centre county until three or four years ago, when he located in Williamsport. He was a man of most exemplary habits in every respect. Some years ago he was engaged in the mercantile business at Bellefonte and his remains will be brought here on Wednesday morning for interment. Brief funeral services will be conducted at Williamsport by the Rev. D. E. Bartner, pastor of the First Congregational church of that place. More extended services were conducted at Bellefonte before interment took place.

Four children survive as follows: T. Clayton, of Bellefonte; John, of Mill Hall; Mrs. J. A. Fiedler, of Williamsport; and Mrs. Philip Miller, of Atlantic City.

MILLHEIM ON THE 4th.

The Little Penns Valley Town will Have a Glorious Time.

CELEBRATE IN GLORY

Many Bands of Music to be Present—Base ball Game Bellefonte vs. Millheim

EVERYONE IS BOUND FOR MILLHEIM

The glorious Fourth of July will be celebrated in Millheim as it never was before. The Millheim Base Ball club has taken the affair in hand and the arrangements are about complete to insure a grand time on that day.

Large posters have been sent out to all the neighboring towns inviting everybody to come and witness the way Millheim can celebrate when it gets stirred up.

Prominent bands of music have been engaged and patriotic, pulse-stirring music will be heard on every hand.

A game of base ball between Bellefonte and Millheim will be played in the afternoon. There will be a tub race and a sack race. A festival in the evening held by the Millheim base ball club will be one of the features.

There will also be an industrial parade. A grand display of fireworks in the evening. Let everybody come who can and assist in celebrating the natal day of our glorious country.

JOHN HENRY SIMLER.

Sketches of a Revolutionary Soldier from Centre County.

John Henry Simler was a Frenchman who enlisted in Captain De Barts company, General Armand's brigade, in November 1780, in the city of Paris, being then twenty nine years. Armand was a French marquis, who had been ten years in military service before he came to this country, and was commissioned a colonel in 1777. His command was cavalry and one of his company did the proverb duty of the army, apprehending deserters, thieves and rioters, patrolling the roads on both flanks of the army to arrest fugitives and catch skulkers. After Gate's defeat at Camden, August 16, 1780, Armand returned to France to recruit men and procure clothing. He recruited and brought over a large number of men, and among them Simler. The only actions Simler participated in were at Jamestown Island, Virginia, under Lafayette, and the capture of Cornwallis at Yorktown, in 1781. He was wounded in the forehead and eye by a sabre, and retained the scar until his death. He was discharged from the service in Philadelphia, in 1783. He married and settled in Philadelphia. In 1793 he lost his wife by the yellow fever, and married a second time.

In 1797 he removed to Philadelphia, Centre county, so named after Henry and James Phillips, two enterprising and intelligent Englishmen, who laid out the place during that year. The first house erected in the then "wilderness town" was built by John H. Simler in 1797. This property he sold in 1822 to Hardman Phillips. Probably some resident of the place may be able to identify it yet. His wife died in 1822, after a sickness of over four years, the expenses of which ate up most of his property. He was a shoemaker, had three children, all married; and Hardman Phillips said of him that he was a sober, frugal and industrious man. He went to Philadelphia in 1820 and died the same year.

John Simler was the great grandfather of Mrs. Forest Bullock of Bellefonte.

Reached His 75th Birthday.

On Friday our good friend Mr. Merty Cunningham celebrated his 75 birthday. The day was passed at home quietly on Bishop street, but in the evening his sons and daughters and grand children kind of surprised him by all gathering around him and pulled his ears. Mr. Cunningham is crawling up in years but is very active. At one time he was one of the business men of the town and has always taken an interest in everything that was done for the betterment of our city. We hope he may have many happy returns of the day.

HAS ENTERED INTO REST

Harrison Kline Passed Away Tuesday Morning Just at Dawn.

Peacefully and with out pain the angel of death entered the Kline home on High street Tuesday morning and called away the spirit life of Harrison Kline. Having suffered very much during his siege of sickness, he was waiting for the summons that would give him rest and peace, and when the Master called at the early morning hour he was waiting and passed into the glorious life of those who are God's children. He was a kind good husband and father always ready with his sympathizing heart to help and comfort those in trouble. He will be greatly missed in the home, and none can realize the sorrow until they pass through this Valley what it is to lose a father or a mother. They are the dearest friends you have on earth. We cannot understand why God casts these sorrows and shadows among His people, but we know that they are all for some good. Some day we will understand and shall see Him face to face and behold Him in all His Glory, what rejoicing in His presence when are banished grief and pain, when the crooked ways are straightened, and the dark things shall be plain. We should rather rejoice when one who has lived with Jesus Christ as his companion and gone home to rest than to be sorry and heavy-hearted.

Harrison Kline was a native of Snyder county having been born near Troxville, May 12th, 1841. He was a son of George and Elizabeth (Fetterolf) Kline, who brought their family to Centre county in 1856, locating first in Penns Valley, where the father engaged in agricultural pursuits. Both were of German lineage and were prominent and respected people.

The boyhood and youth of Harrison Kline was passed upon the farm, where he assisted his father in the labors of the field, attending at the same time the public schools of the neighborhood, where he acquired a good practical education which fitted him for the responsible duties of life. As his vocation he chose agriculture, and became one of the most prosperous, energetic and progressive farmers in the county.

On November 12th 1863, he was married to Miss Annetta Gentzel who died in 1869 leaving four children, namely, Elizabeth, wife of Elmer Showers; D. M. a farmer of Spring township; Henry of Bellefonte; Robert of Bellefonte. Mr. Kline was again married April 7, 1872, this time to Miss Sarah Gephart of Zion, and to them were born two children, Anna C., wife of Clark Carson, and Orlan of Bellefonte, one step-son William Royer.

In politics, Mr. Kline was a steadfast adherent of the principles formulated by the Republican party, and on November 3, 1896, he was elected (on that ticket) treasurer of Centre County, by the handsome majority of 326 votes, methodical and systematic in business he proved a most capable official and served with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of his constituents. He has been very successful in his life work, and being endowed with many virtues and a genial, hospitable manner, he received the respect and confidence of the entire community. He was a worthy member of the S. John's Reformed church, and was an active and prominent member of the Grange, having served at different times in several prominent positions in this organization. He was also a charter member of the Royal Arcanum of Bellefonte.

Mr. Kline has one brother and three sisters, living, namely, Rev. Robert Kline of Allentown; Mrs. W. A. Ishler, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Harry Meese, of State College; and Miss Alice Kline of near Bellefonte.

The funeral will take place (this) Thursday afternoon at four o'clock from his late home on High street. Interment will be made in the Union cemetery Bellefonte.

Started For Cuba.

Fredrick LeRoy Raymond, of Lock Haven, was yesterday accepted for enlistment in the U. S. cavalry by Captain R. C. Williams, at the local recruiting office. Raymond left Wednesday for New York, at which place he will remain for about three weeks receiving instructions and equipment and will then be forwarded to a cavalry regiment serving in Cuba. Raymond is well known in Bellefonte, he having been a member of Company B, Fifth regiment, N. G. P. Many of his friends and former comrades were at the depot to see him off and wish him success in his chosen military career.

WHEN HE HUSTLED.

By Abbie F. Ransom.

Copyrighted, 1907, by E. C. Parcella.

She stood by the window watching the retreating figure of the young man, too much absorbed to notice the entrance of her father until he was by her side. Without speaking she leaned her arm upon his shoulder and thus they watched until the young man was no longer in sight. Then her father spoke:

"It won't do, Elsie. You've got to tell him I said so. He isn't the one."

The hand which had been caressing his hair was thrown out with indignant protest and the girl faced him, pained surprise in every curve of the dainty lips.

"What's wrong, father?" she demanded. Why haven't you said that before?"

The gray eyes gazing into her own held far more kindness than his words. They were full of stern decision.

"Because I haven't been sure. Now I am. Fred Denton can never support a wife. He isn't able to now, and he never will be. You've got to call it off."

"But, father," she began.

"It's no use, Elsie," he interrupted. "It isn't in him. A young man to succeed nowadays must get out and hustle, and that's something Fred Denton will never do. He spends his time in his office reading, reading, and that never brought patient to a doctor yet."

"Why, the other night there was an accident at Cedar Glens. Kensett was mixed up in it. Had a drunken chauffeur, and the whole car came precious near going over the cliff. Would have gone if it hadn't been for a young med. who understood sprinting and who saved it in the nick of time."

"As it was, Kensett got off with a broken collar bone, a friend of his came home with a smashed hand, and—well, you read it in the papers. That saw-bones is fixed for life just because he happened to be on the spot and knew what to do and how to do it. But it wasn't Denton. He was in his office reading up the microbes of leprosy or some other outlandish disease."

"Fred was just telling me," began Elsie, when her father cut her short.

"Then, too, he had a little money in one of the banks. Where's that? He wasn't content to let it stay where it was. He asked me what I thought about Aurora stocks, and I told him they weren't worth the matches to burn 'em, but he invested in them. Where are they now? Whew! Now you see 'em and now you don't."

"Father, if you would only listen—"

"Listen to what? The same old story of love in a flat and your $500 a year? I've got a deal on hand and won't be home before tomorrow night. In the meantime you just give me that ring on your finger and I'll return it to Fred Denton, M. D."

Slowly his daughter drew off the ring, a curious expression growing in her eyes, one which her father was quick to observe.

"See here, Elsie," he said as he took it from her. "I want you to promise that if he calls you won't see him until I give you permission; that is, if I ever do."

"You are very unjust, father; if you would only listen—"

"I've waited too long already," he responded, starting off. "Mind your promise, Elsie; there isn't to be any more of this nonsense."

"Perhaps there'll be more instead of less," she murmured as the door closed behind him. Then she went up the stairs to her room with a tread as full of decision as his tones had been.

It didn't take long for her to reappear dressed for the street, and fifteen minutes later she surprised a certain young man who was very busily engaged doing nothing at all in a pleasantly furnished office of a downtown business block.

"He wouldn't give me a chance to say a single word," she concluded indignantly.

Fred Denton smiled complacently into her flushed face. There was no trace of the despondent lover about him.

"We won't try to explain," he said. "Suppose you take this trip to New York with me this morning? You look very pretty," he answered. "White dress, white hat, white shoes and gloves. Really, Elsie, one would almost believe that you had dressed purposely for a wedding trip."

"Fred Denton, you don't believe"—she paused, crimson to the very ears. Then she added irrelevantly:

"Father ran away with mother; I've heard him tell about it time and time again."

"Come on," Denton cried.

"It doesn't seem right, Fred. Father has always been the kindest, the best father in existence, and he is doing this just because he loves me."

"That's just the reason we're doing what we are," was his ready response. "Come, dear, we haven't a moment to lose. You go to the Wilson avenue station and take the train from there, while I'll trolley it to Woodlawn and get on board at that place. Then no one will see us together until after we leave the city and we are all O. K."

A ten minutes' wait for the New York express is a time altogether inadequate for repentance and home-poking. Besides, there was the danger of discovery, and no one of Elsie Kingston's makeup ever flinched when danger was in the air.

Then there was her ticket to buy, her seat to secure and the ten minutes had come and gone before she thought of looking for friend or foe in that crowded railway car.

At Woodlawn station she saw Fred Denton swing himself upon the platform of the smoker, but the city streets were far behind them, and the train was speeding fast through the country meadows before he joined her. When he did, he held in his hand a little circlet of gold whose center held a very familiar diamond. Slipping into the seat beside her, he said:

"Better put this upon your finger. It's been away from its place too long already."

"Why, Fred," she gasped, "where did you get that?"

"Your father handed it to me a few moments ago."

"Father! Where is he? Where did you see him?"

"He's back there in the smoker," he replied nonchalantly. "He gave it to me just after the train left Woodlawn."

Her face went white.

"What did you say?"

"Nothing. I was passing through the car on my way to you when he handed me and said in the pleasantest tone imaginable: 'Mr. Denton, I promised my daughter to give you this package. There isn't to be any answer.' I took it from him, with an 'All right,' and came on into the next car, sitting where I knew he could see me from his seat. Then I waited awhile and hunted you up."

"He told me this morning he was going away for a couple of days." Tears were very near her eyes. "Oh, Fred, if he should see us and try to make a scene! What will we do?"

"See here, little girl," said Denton tenderly, "you've got your engagement ring back again, haven't you? Now, in the course of three or four hours I intend to supplement that with a plain gold band. Don't you worry. Aurora stocks may have gone up in hot air, but I didn't. Your father wants you to marry a hustler. Now, you just watch me deliver the goods when he calls for them."

"First call for dinner! First call for dinner!" cried the porter on his way to the smoker.

"Shall we go now," Denton asked, "or do you prefer waiting a little?"

"Father always likes an early dinner," she answered, "and he'll be sure to pass through here very soon. There won't be so many in the dining car. Let's go now."

They found a vacant table in the far end of the dining car and seated themselves there. Scarcely had their order been served when Kingston entered.

Elsie, raising her eyes, saw him standing in the aisle, and she gave a little sigh, which made Denton look quickly around. A moment more, and he was by their table.

"I will sit here," he said to the waiter. "Bring my plate to this table."

When they were alone he spoke again, this time to his daughter.

"Is this the way you keep promises?"

"You did not ask me to promise not to meet Fred," she answered, "so just after you left I went to his office."

"Then what?" he asked.

"Then," said Fred, before Elsie could speak, "I asked Elsie to take this trip with me, and she consented."

"Huh!" grunted Kingston. "A wedding trip, I presume."

"Hardly that," responded Denton, "as we are not married yet. We just expect to be when we reach New York."

"Then what?" The question was asked in a tone which made Elsie quiver.

"Nothing much," Denton answered coolly, "only Aurora stocks brought me in a neat three thousand more than I put into them, and yesterday I secured a position as house physician in the Woodlawn sanitarium, and that's good for a couple of thousand a year."

"What's that?" asked Kingston sharply.

"You see, Kensett is one of the most influential men connected with that institution, and the little service I was fortunate enough to render the night that drunken chauffeur tried to kill him brought me the place. I've worked for it for three months, but that clinched it, sure."

"I thought that was a fellow by the name of Lent," growled Kingston.

"That's what the papers said. I didn't care whether they called me Lent or Easter so long as I got the place and Elsie with it."

"Why didn't you keep me from making a fool of myself?" her father demanded, turning to his daughter with a well affected semblance of wrath.

"For answer she rested her elbows upon the table, her chin in her hands, and gazed fixedly into his eyes for an instant; then she said earnestly:

"You are improving, father. I was afraid you might lay the blame for that defect in your constitution upon the Lord. Most people do."

Three hours later in the parlor of the Little Church Around the Corner the bride was given away by her father.

Aids to Humanity.

No woman has done more for humanity and for the individual than the old maid reformer and the old maid aunt. There is none to whom we owe a deeper debt of gratitude and none whom we could not better spare, says a writer in the Cosmopolitan, for be sure of this, God sends old maids into the world to do the work that the rest of us leave undone.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

For children; safe, sure. No opiates.

For sale by C. M. Parrish.

Piles get quick and certain relief from Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. Please note it is made alone for Piles, and its action is positive and certain. Itching, painful, protruding or blind piles disappear like magic by its use. Large nickel-capped glass jars 50 cents. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

More News from the New England States.

If any one has any doubt as to the virtue of Foley's Kidney Cure, they need only to refer to Mr. Alvin Stimpson, of Wilbraham, Conn., who after almost losing hope of recovery, on account of the failure of so many remedies, finally tried Foley's Kidney Cure, which he says was "just the thing" for him, as four bottles cured him completely. He is now entirely well and free from all suffering incident to acute kidney trouble.

Kidney complaint kills more people than any other disease. This is due to the disease being so insidious that it gets a good hold on the system before it is recognized. Foley's Kidney Cure will prevent the development of fatal disease if taken in time.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup is best for women and children. Its mild action and pleasant taste makes it preferable to violent purgatives such as pills, tablets, etc. Get the booklet and a sample of Orino at C. M. Parrish.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs.

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a bell. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

MARK TWAIN'S CHILDREN.

A Case Where Attempted Punishment Proved a Hopeless Failure.

Ordinary punishments answered very well for Susy. She was a thinker and would reason out the purpose of them, apply the lesson and achieve the reform required. But it was much less easy to devise punishments that would reform Clara. This was because she was a philosopher who was always turning her attention to finding something good and satisfactory and entertaining in everything that came her way. Consequently it was sometimes pretty discouraging to the troubled mother to find that after all her pains and thought in inventing what she meant to be a severe and reform compelling punishment the child had entirely missed the severities through her native disposition to get into an attitude out of them as novelties. The mother, in her anxiety to find a penalty that would take sharp hold and do its work effectively, at last resorted with a sore heart and with a reproachful conscience, to that punishment which the incorrigible criminal in the penitentiary dreads above all the other punitive miseries which the warden inflicts upon him for his good—solitary confinement in the dark chamber. The grieved and worried mother shut Clara up in a very small clothes closet and went away and left her there for fifteen minutes. It was all that the mother heart could endure. Then she came softly back and listened—listened for the sobs, but there weren't any; there were muffled and inarticulate sounds, but they could not be construed into sobs. The mother waited half an hour longer. By that time she was suffering so intensely with sorrow and compassion for the little prisoner that she was not able to wait any longer for the distressed sounds which she had counted upon to inform her when there had been punishment enough and the reform accomplished. She opened the closet to set the prisoner free and take her back into her loving favor and forgiveness, but the result was not the one expected. The captive had manufactured a fairy cavern out of the closet, and friendly fairies out of the clothes hanging from the hooks and was having a most sinful and unrepentant good time and requested permission to spend the rest of the day there!—From Mark Twain's Autobiography in North American Review.

INDIAN PROVERBS.

The coward shoots with shut eyes. Small things talk loud to the Indian's eye.

The paleface's arm is longer than his word.

When a fox walks lame, the old rabbit jumps.

A squaw's tongue runs faster than the wind's legs.

There is nothing so eloquent as a rattlesnake's tail.

The Indian scalps his enemy. The paleface skins his friends.

Two men will live together in quiet and friendship, but two squaws never.

When a man prays one day and steals six, the Great Spirit thunders and the evil one laughs.

There are three things it takes a strong man to hold—a young warrior, a wild horse and a handsome squaw.—Scrap Book.

A Dog and an Egg.

A farmer in a western state possessed two dogs, a big one called Alice and a small one that was named Billy. Alice, greedy creature, was fond of fresh eggs. When she heard a hen cackle she always ran to look for the nest. One day she found one under the fruit shed. But she could not get the egg because she was too large to go under the shed. She went away and soon returned with Billy, bringing him just before the hole.

Billy was stupid and did not understand. Alice put her head in and then her paws without being able to reach the egg. Billy seemed to understand what was wanted. He went under the shed, brought out the egg and put it before Alice, who ate it with great satisfaction, and then both dogs trotted off together.—Chicago Tribune.

Lively in the Tenements.

A young woman new to mission work on the east side, New York, was lately moved to comment sadly upon the monotonous and cheerless existence of the inhabitants of the tenements.

"I suppose there is little brightness and recreation in your lives," said she to an eleven-year-old girl.

"Oh, I don't know about that," answered the girl. "It ain't so dull as you might think. Dere's always somethin' doin' to keep us from gittin' blue. It's lively sometimes, all right. For instance, las' night the people on our floor was a-cuttin' up high. Dere was a gentleman next to us what had de tremens, an' de lady right across the hall from us was jagged so she nearly bit her sister's ear off."—New York Tribune.

Hurt His Feelings.

"I told you that poor young widow," began Mrs. Nuritch, "that you'd give her boy work if"—

"Well, I won't," interrupted Nuritch. "She sent him today with a note that said, 'I must find employment for my son, even if he works for a mere pittance.' The nerve of her callin' me a mere pittance!"—Philadelphia Press.

A Use For Factory.

"Do you enjoy pacifism?"

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "It is a great conversational convenience. It enables people to quote instead of being stupidly original."—Washington Star.

Clinton Country Club.

The idea of a country club has received every encouragement and so many have already joined in the organization of this club that its success is assured.

The property secured for the purpose is the farm recently purchased by Charles Dunn and has been leased by the club for a long term of years. It is situated one quarter mile east of Fairpoint church on the road running between Fairpoint and Flemington; is one mile from the trolley in Flemington, one three-quarter miles from the Normal school by the Glenn road, and three miles by the Lusk Run road and is on the bluff directly above the Bald Eagle creek dam. The farm comprises fifty acres of tillable land, large barn and other farm buildings and a large brick house with four rooms and hall on the first floor, five rooms and hall on second floor, cellar and attic. The house is most admirably suited to the purposes of a club house, as it is an old colonial homestead with large airy rooms and open fire places. The farm will give every opportunity for outdoor sports. It is the intention to build tennis courts at once and this fall golf links and a base ball field will be laid out, while the Bald Eagle creek affords the boating and canoeing which Lock Haven has missed so much since the river is no longer available. The club house will be furnished throughout and have facilities for serving dinners and suppers and will accommodate small parties over night, and in every respect the place will offer every advantage of a country club.

There will be three classes of resident membership, for married couples, single men and for single women and one class for all non residents of Clinton county.

THE BEST FRIENDS OF PE-RU-NA ARE THE MOTHERS AND CHILDREN

Peru-na Should Be Kept In Every Household

Where There Are Little Children.

Peru-na should be kept in the house all the time. Don't wait until the child is sick, then send to a drug store. But, have Peru-na on hand—accept no substitute.

Children are especially liable to acute catarrh. Indeed, most of the affections of childhood are catarrh.

All forms of sore throat, quinsy, croup, hoarseness, laryngitis, etc., are but different phases of catarrh.

Peru-na Contains No Narcotics.
One reason why Peru-na has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind. Peru-na, if taken according to printed directions, is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. It does not produce temporary results, but it is permanent in its effect.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh.

Mrs. F. Brockman, 818 Meade street, Appleton, Wis., writes:
"I have never had a return of the catarrh, which had made me so miserable and unhappy before I began taking Peru-na."
"I would not be without it in the house, now."
"I have a baby boy, two years old, to whom I give Peru-na for a cold, and my husband also takes Peru-na."
"I thank you and wish you well."—Mrs. F. Brockman.

No Doctor Required.

Mr. Edward Otto, 927 De Soto street, St. Paul, Minn., writes:

"I cannot say enough for Peru-na. It has done great work in my family, especially for my oldest boy. We had doctor with three or four different doctors and they did not seem to do him any good."

"We gave up hopes of cure, and so did they, but we pulled him through on Peru-na."

"We had several doctors and they said they could do no more for him, so we tried Peru-na as a last resort, and that did the work. Since then we keep it in the house all the time, and no doctor is required."—Edward Otto.

There are a multitude of homes where Peru-na has been used off and on for twenty years.

Such a thing could not be possible if Peru-na contained any narcotics.

The Benefit Which the Children of the United States Have Received From Peru-na Can Never Be Put Into Words.

The chronic ailments it has prevented, the suffering it has mitigated, will never be fully recorded.

But at least this much can be said that the coming generation owes a great debt to Peru-na, for it is in the tender years of youth that slight ailments are liable to develop into lasting disease, thus blasting the whole career of the individual.

The mothers who are bringing up their children to-day to believe in Peru-na are speaking from their experience.

These children brought up to believe in Peru-na from the start, will, when they become heads of families themselves, use Peru-na with unquestioning faith.

A Child's Life Saved.

Mr. G. H. Farmer, New Martinsville, W. Va., writes:

"Our little son, Harry, is well and healthy now and we think if we do as you directed us, he will keep his health and grow strong."

"We know that our little son's life was saved by your wonderful medicine, Peru-na, and we shall always praise Peru-na and use it in our family when needed."

"Should we have any more catarrhal trouble in our family, we shall always write to you for treatment."

Mr. W. F. Doring, Mt. Vernon, Mo., writes:

"I have used Peru-na to my entire satisfaction and am exceedingly well pleased with the results, having suffered greatly with catarrh of the stomach."

Mrs. J. C. Sterling, 133 Brown Avenue, Norfolk, Va., writes:

"My little boy, Meredith, suffered with indigestion so badly he could not eat anything without it making him very sick, so I thought (as many others have) that I would try Peru-na, and it worked like a charm."

"Now he eats anything he wishes, and I would not be without it for anything."

"My other little boy, Alfred, two and a half years old, has taken it and received as much benefit from Peru-na as his brother."

"I hope my testimonial may be of some benefit to others, as I feel as though I cannot praise it enough."

—Mrs. J. C. Sterling.

Mr. Howard Andrew Sterner, 424 Canal street, Reading, Pa., writes:

"I have Peru-na in my house all the time and won't be without it. It is good for children when they take a cold or croup. It cured my baby boy of croup."

"I have introduced Peru-na into six families since I received your last letter, and four have seen relief already."

—Howard Andrew Sterner.

Peru-na Protects the Entire Household.

As soon as the value of Peru-na is appreciated by every household, both as a preventive and remedy, many lives may be saved and thousands of chronic lingering cases of catarrh may be prevented.

When Sickness Comes to the Little Ones

It Is the Mother Who Chiefly Suffers.

She suffers even more than the child who happens to be sick. Her sympathy is deeper than that of any other member of the family.

The mother looks forward with dread to the torrid heat of summer, thinking of her children and the many liabilities to disease that are before them.

Spring and summer are sure to bring ailments, especially among the little folks.

It does not take a mother very long to discover that Peru-na is the best friend she has in time of illness among the children.

A Multitude of Mothers

Have discovered that Peru-na is their stand-by, and that in many of the ailments of spring and summer to which the children are subjected, Peru-na is the remedy that will generally quickly relieve.

Whether it is spring fever or stomach derangement, whether it is indigestion or bowel disease, a catarrhal congestion of the mucous surfaces is the cause.

Peru-na quickly relieves this condition of the mucous membranes. Its operation is prompt, the children do not dislike to take the medicine, it has no deleterious effects in any part of the body.

It simply removes the cause of the disagreeable symptoms and restores the health.

Peru-na is a household remedy for all catarrhal ailments of winter and summer, acute or chronic.

The mothers all over the United States are the best friends that Peru-na has.

Mr. C. Hallock, Antwerp, Ohio, writes: "My daughter Allie, after taking three bottles of your Peru-na is entirely cured of catarrh of the head of two years standing. We have used Peru-na as a general tonic as well as for catarrh and are well pleased with it and recommend it to anybody who has catarrh."

The Mothers Hold Peru-na in High Esteem.

Not only because it has cured them of their various ailments, but because it promptly rescues the children from the throes and grasp of catarrhal diseases.

We have in our files many testimonials from mothers whose children have been cured by Peru-na. However, the large majority of mothers who use Peru-na, never hear from them.

But we do hear from a great number of mothers who are so overjoyed at some special good they have received from Peru-na that they cannot restrain their enthusiasm. They are anxious to share these benefits with other mothers.

Doesn't Pose as a Fisherman.

Editor P. Gray Meek of the Bellefonte Democratic Watchman vouches for the following Clinton county fish story: "While fishing on Fishing creek Monday evening, Dr. Dave Dale caught seven trout ranging in length from 11 to 14 inches in just half an hour. And he doesn't pose as a fisherman. Not knowing the doctor nor the place, some of our contemporaries, when they read this, will declare that he should pose as a liar, but he is not, because the writer was on the ground and saw the remarkable catch made." Lock Haven Democrat.

MACCABEES HAVE SMOKER.

Elected Officers for Six Months After Which They Banqueted.

On Wednesday evening the Knights of the Maccabees Bellefonte Tent No. 100, held a meeting in the Undine House and elected their officers for the next six months. A great many candidates were up for the different offices and doubtless the business part was very interesting.

After the business of the evening was finished the members gathered in the banquet hall and partook of the excellent refreshments that the entertainment committee had prepared. We know that portion of the meeting was very delightful as we had the honor of being one of their guests.

The Maccabees are a very strong fraternal order and have a membership of almost two hundred in Bellefonte. They have just lately organized and it is wonderful the growth of the organization in so short a time. The Maccabees are made up of men from all walks of life, but that makes no difference to the men, in the order and out of the order they are brothers, and all social barriers are cast aside, the poor man is recognized the same as the fellow who is well off, and stand together on the same fraternal plane to do all in their power to uphold the order. The officers elected at Wednesday evening's meeting were:

Past Commander—Hard P. Harris.
Commander—Laird Curtin.
La. Commander—J. Thos. Mitchell.
Sergeant—Newton Dunlap.
Chaplain—J. C. Rumbarger.
Master of Arms—Harry Shreffler.
1st M. of Guard—Samuel Ray.
2nd M. of Guard—Frank Woerner.
Picket—Arthur Brown.

We don't know any thing at all in regards to the workings of the order but we imagine they are very pretty.

The entertaining part of the programme was carried out in Royal old style and the boys certainly did fill up for fare-the-well, and it was almost midnight when they managed to get home. We don't want you to infer that they had intoxicating drinks, nothing stronger than Rush's Pittsburg Coffee, and say that certainly was great. The committee had prepared enough eatables for one hundred and twenty-five good eaters, and they had an abundant of every thing.

Ham, cheese, tongue and beef sandwiches, cold sliced ham and bologna, pickle, olives, cold-slaw, potato salad, ice cream, cake, coffee, cigars and cigarettes. That was part of the bill of fare that the boys had the pleasure of enjoying on Wednesday evening.

Parson Rumbarger was one of the first at the table and the last one leaving, and then he still looked hungry, he wanted the committee to put several sandwiches in a basket to send out to Charles M. Schwab. My oh my but Rumbarger has a great capacity and especially for 35 cent cheese.

The committee in charge of the smoker deserve a great deal of credit for the manner in which every thing was gotten up. It was certainly a pleasure to be present and enjoy the affair with the boys.

The entertainment committee was composed of the following gentlemen, Harry Gheret, James McCully, Warren Raab, Harry Grubb, John Armstrong and Newton Dunlap.

Patton—Bell.

Mr. Frank Blair Patton and Miss Margaret Estetta Bell, both of Huntingdon, were the contracting parties of a pretty wedding solemnized in the Reformed church at that place at noon Wednesday. The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion and was filled with relatives and friends from Huntingdon, Altoona and other points in the state.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. E. Master, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Follmer, pastor of the Lutheran church. The bridesmaids were Miss Julietta Heineling, of Altoona; Miss Nellie Ward, Pittsburg; Miss Edna Kline, Huntingdon; and Miss Jennie Hull Aaronsburg. The best man was David Masterson, of Altoona. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Blair Patton, of Huntingdon.

He is a civil engineer and a talented musician. The bride is one of Huntingdon's most estimable young women and the numerous presents received attested her popularity. Mr. and Mrs. Patton will reside in Huntingdon.

Mrs. Patton is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Bell formerly of Bellefonte.

Interesting Letter from Mrs. Kurtz.

Editor of the Republican.

LEAVENWORTH, KANS.

June 19th 1907.

I just received one of your papers sent me by a friend of Bellefonte. I enclose a small article commending the kind act of Miss Harper in defending a poor horse. Kindly insert it. Do in Heaven's name put the subject before the public as often as you can to banish the cruelty which is certainly going on in Bellefonte. I also inclose 20 Don't for drivers, kindly insert them in behalf of "The Humane Society." Have it in the paper numerous time through the summer, it may aid some unfortunate beast. In your issue of June 8th I am pleased to learn that Miss Harper asserted the rights of Penn. Laws in regards to the abuse of animals, brave noble girl I heartily wish every man, woman and child would benefit by her example and form an individual Humane Society thus banishing the numerous cases of cruelty to horses in your district.

Part Man and Part Beast.

When whiskey is in a man he really is not responsible for what he does. On Saturday evening a young wife with her little child waited patiently in a buggy at the United Brethren Church corner for the drunken husband and father, and after waiting a long time the young wife sent a message to the bar room to get her husband, he was so enraged and said so many bad and ugly things to the young woman that she cried and the people down Thomas street could hear her crying and him cursing and swearing for a great distance. That is certainly a nice way to treat a poor defenseless woman the one you promised at the altar to love and honor and protect. We know the man, and he should be ashamed of himself to act in this manner.

Lightning Struck in Bellefonte.

During the tremendous electrical and thunder storm on Saturday evening one stroke of lightning struck a large maple tree in front of W. Harrison Walker's home on Linn St. The current went around the tree like a snake and then sank into the ground, which was torn up. The soil and dirt was thrown the whole way across the street. It frightened the residents in that portion of the town in great style.

Badly Injured in a Runaway.

Last Thursday afternoon as Morris Runkle, who lives on George Dole's farm near the Shiloh church, was driving a team of horses along on the pike the neck chain of one of the animals came loose and he got off to fix it. While standing in front of the team an automobile came along, frightening the horses and causing them to run away. Mr. Runkle held to them for quite a distance but was finally knocked down, dragged several rods and then run over by the wagon. He was picked up and carried home a d it was at first thought that he was fatally injured. He was badly cut and bruised, but fortunately no bones were broken and it is not now believed that he sustained any internal injuries, so that his chances for recovery are very good.

Though the automobilists did not give their names they stated that they were from Tyrone. Persons who saw the accident, however, took the number of the tag on the machine so that it will be an easy matter to find out the owner. Mr. Runkle states that the driver of the machine gave no warning of his approach so that both he and his horses were taken unawares. It is quite likely a suit for damages will be brought by Mr. Runkle against the owner of the machine.

Married at Milesburg.

On Saturday evening about 8:30 Miss Stella Gheret became the wife of Lloyd Flack both of Bellefonte. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. C. Pifer pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Milesburg at the parson's manse.

The bride is a very capable young lady and will make a good helpmate through life, while the groom is a moulder by trade and will no doubt be a kind good husband. Both young people have many friends in Bellefonte who join in with the Daily News in wishing them joy and happiness through life.

Pulled Out Early.

After playing "Onward Christian Soldier" and "Looking this Way" at Sunday afternoon on a sweet potato "Frantz" the wonderfully cheap picture man has left town. We don't know where he went, but the noise he made all Sunday afternoon on those instruments when other people were trying to rest certainly was tiresome and if he went where so many wished he would go, he's got a hot job on for today.

Run Down by Freight.

Henry Perego, of Govanstown, Md., employed by the Kyrre-Shoemaker company, was probably fatally injured in an accident which befell him at New Florence, on the Pittsburg division, short y after noon Tuesday. He was run down by a freight train and so badly hurt that he will not likely recover.

Perego was crossing the tracks at the time and failed to note the approach of the freight train. He was hurled forward for some distance and before he was able to regain his feet the freight bore down upon him again with the result that his left leg was ground off at the hip joint and his right foot crushed so that amputation will be necessary. Perego is an American and about 33 years of age.

What Does He Mean?

It is an outrage to permit thieving to be practiced by inmates of the county jail, yet thefts have been committed there, and the circumstances connected with it are known to the authorities, without even a rebuke having been administered.

Is it not the duty of the proper officials to take immediate action to punish thieves who steal from the county?

The people think so.—Centre Hall Reporter.

Wonderful Curiosity

On Saturday on William Decker's farm near Hubersburg a two headed calf was born. The animal had been dead several days before its birth. It has two perfectly shaped heads of normal size, with ears, eyes noses and mouths. The little beast will be sent to a taxidermist who will have it mounted. If this animal would have lived it would have been worth a great deal of money to Mr. Decker.

COL. CHAMBERS ACCEPTS.

In a Letter to the Voters of Centre County He Sets Forth His Views.

BELLEFONTE, PA. June 25, 1907.
Harry Keller, Esq., Chairman of the Republican County Committee.

Dear Sir:—

Just before the Primaries I was approached and asked to be a candidate for the position of District Attorney of Centre County. I positively refused, not with-standing that fact my name was placed on the ticket at the Primaries and I was nominated. I am not unmindful of the fact that this was a great compliment to me. While the office is no a big one yet it is a very important one and the people have a right to demand that it be filled by a man of ability and integrity. I have a right to demand that no innocent man shall be unjustly punished, and that no guilty man shall escape.

The office of District Attorney is not a political office, for it has no thing to do with shaping the policies of any political party, but he owes it to the Commonwealth to see that every criminal shall receive his just punishment at the least possible expense to the honest taxpayer. The farmer who works from day light to late evening at hard labor in order to meet his living expenses, should not be forced to pay extra taxes for mistakes made in our Criminal Courts.

I did not ask for the office of District Attorney, because I had other plans for my future, but since it has come to me in the way it has I accept the nomination. And if I am elected I pledge myself that every case shall be tried in the open, and upon its own merits, and to the best of my ability, and at the least expense to the taxpayer. Larceny, burglary, and murder now run riot in this county of late and if I am elected I pledge myself to break this up and stop it with out unnecessary expense.

Yours for Service
E. R. CHAMBERS.

Whose Say is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for through druggists, one has to take the sale maker's say so alone as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives. Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a striking exception to this rule. Their claims to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their makers say so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle wrapper. These invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well known medicines.

Amongst these writers we find such medical lights as Prof. Finley Ellingswood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late Cincinnati, Ohio; Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. Grove, of New York; Dr. Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, of Pa., and scores of others equally eminent.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the worst cases of female weakness, prostrates, antenatal and retroversion and corrects irregularities, cures painful periods, dries up discharges and weakens, dries, sometimes known as pelvic catarrh and a multitude of other diseases peculiar to women.

Another Novelty Gotten out by Geo. Bush in the Souvenir Line.

Our enterprising post card man, Geo. T. Bush has just gotten out another novelty, being twenty-four pictures of points of interest in Bellefonte in the shape of gummed and perforated picture stamps the size of the Columbian postage stamp put up in neat little books with parafin paper between the leaves, so the book can be mailed as a whole for a one cent stamp or the stamps removed separately and put on letters, envelopes or cards. The price for the whole 24 pictures being but 10 cents or 3 books for 25 cents. He now claims to have the largest variety of post cards in the United States, numbering 10,000 different kind, running in price from one cent to one dollar each. The wholesale business he is building up in post cards is beginning to be quite a business of itself.

The stock on hand now will run close to two thousand dollars with large quantities of cards coming in all the time. He most truly earns the name he has been dubbed as the "Post Card King."

A Safe and Sure Cough Cure.

Old Farmer Jones Says.

A am most ternal tied Sarah I just got back from a trip to Pittsburgh. I was out to see Uncle Andrew and Charles M. I took them a few sandwiches along made out of real ham, and I had the best time I loaded there about eleven o'clock at night and I'll swear they hadn't gone to bed yet and all their neighbors was up yet to. I asked them if some one was sick but they said it was the custom to retire late out there, they was all glad to see me and after we talked a little while I told them I guess I would prespire if they had no objections, they did not say anything so I waited a little while and said again if they would give me a taller candle I'd go to bed, then Andrew wanted to know if I'd take a nightcap first, but I told him I was not useto sleeping in one at home, we'll have a glass of cider any how. Do you know I could not half sleep, they bired girl left a pair of lace curtains lay on the pillows and the dog gone things sort of tickled and scratched me all night, then they had their light covered with glass and I could not blow it out, and I don't sleep good with a light in the room. I got awake about four o'clock and waited and waited to hear Andy get up to make the fire after I laid awake for five hours I just got so hungry, I got up and dressed and found my way down stairs, just like crawling down a hay hole. I hardly knew where I was going till I run against a sugar bowl about three feet high with chinese pictures on the out side and broke it then that wakened Andy and he thought there was robbers in the house he said Mrs. Carnegie could get another one when she went to Atlantic City. After breakfast I said I guessed I would go out and see the city and maybe I could dispose of a few bushels of potatoes to some of the folks and said what time do you have dinner, "oh six o'clock" she said, well said I, six o'clock. I'll be joe dogged then when do you have supper but she did not hear me I went down and got dinner at noon and went back to my uncles and got dinner for supper and do you know, as rich as Andy is, all they had for supper was a dish of thin soup, why I just up with my plate and drank it all down in one gully. You know at home we have dinner at noon and supper at five o'clock until the wind blows over the out stables and then we eat supper by candle light. I said I would go home and run for the train I was sure I would miss it as the ticket agent was not there yet and there was about a dozen ahead of me to get tickets. Uncle hollowed after me when a went out the door, "that was the first course." I just told him I thought, of course I could make the train, to never mind after me. Then Sarah picked up the "Howard Hornet" and began to read the advertisements and news as follows: "A saddle horse for a woman weighing about nine hundred and fifty pounds."

"A man was killed by a railroad car running into Coleville supposed to be deaf."

A message from Milesburg states "we have decided to erect a school house large enough to accommodate five hundred scholars five stories high." "Lock Haven has four hundred dwelling houses and two thousand and twenty-two inhabitants all standing with their gable ends to the river." On the Loganton Railroad the following luminous direction was printed, "Hereafter, when trains moving in an opposite direction are approaching each other on separate lines, conductors and engineers will be requested to bring their trains to a dead halt before the point of meeting, and be careful not to proceed till each train has passed the other."

A steamboat captain advertising an excursion says, "Tickets twenty-five cents; children half price, to be had at the office." The Union House was thus advertised "This hotel will be kept by the widow of the former landlord, Mr. Brown who died last summer on a new and improved plan."

Board may be had at No. 4 Pearl st. for two gentlemen with gas.

Over a Bridge at Athens, Ga. is the following, "Any person driving over this bridge in a pace faster than a walk, shall if a white man, be fined five dollars and if a negro receive twenty-five lashes, half the penalty to be bestowed on the informer." A newspaper contained this: "We have two schoolrooms sufficiently large to accommodate three hundred pupils each above the other." Another newspaper in describing the doings of a convention at Cleveland said: "the procession was very fine and nearly two miles long, as was also the prayer of Dr. Perry the chaplain."

Graham Hunters chicks have the gaps he asked me what to do, I told him to get a horse hair make a loop and open their mouth insert the hair and it would tickle the chicks so that they would just cough up, but Graham wanted to go for a preacher he said when a little girl over on Lamb street swallowed a penny one day they sent for a minister and he coaxed it out of her. I said that will do Sarah now wind the cat, and put the clock out and lets get to bed.

Part of E. J. Pruner's Will.

We don't know of any other question that has been talked about more freely and argued in public places as the "E. J. Pruner Orphanage."

On every street corner, in front of the stores, in the bar-rooms, pool-rooms, Court House, offices of the hotels, the topic of the conversation is—"What do you think should be done with the Pruner Orphanage?" Below we give the part of E. J. Pruner's will that contains the question talked so much about.

"I give and bequeath in trust to the Corporation of Tyrone and the Corporation of Bellefonte, Pa., The Homestead which I own at Bellefonte, Pa. for a Home for Friendless Children from the towns of Tyrone and Bellefonte, the Home to be called the E. J. Pruner Home for Friendless Children and for the purpose of Endowing said Home I bequeath in trust for ever to the Corporation of the Borough of Tyrone, Pa., and the Corporation of the Borough of Bellefonte, Pa., the Brick Building on Penn Avenue near Juniata River known as the Pruner Block and also the Block corner Penn Avenue & 11th Street known as the Hoover Block and also my land in the State of North Dakota and my land in State of Kansas and my land in Taylor, Worth & Rush Township Centre Co., Pa., for the purpose of an Endowment to said School. The children sent to said Home are not to be under five years of age and when they arrive at 12 years of age places to be obtained for them by the Board of Managers of the Home when there is an excess of Revenue for the support of friendless Children from the Towns of Tyrone and Bellefonte then Friendless children can be admitted from Altoona, Pa., It is distinctly to be understood that this Home is not to be a Home for Pauper Children but for children who have no parents.

Should there be any reasons why the Borough of Tyrone and the Borough of Bellefonte cannot carry out the provisions of this will then the property for said Home is bequeathed to my niece Sallie M. Hayes.

As I have stated on page 8th of this will should there exist any reasons why the Borough of Tyrone and the Borough of Bellefonte cannot carry out the provisions of this will in relation to the Home for Friendless Children then the property that was bequeathed to the Borough of Tyrone and Borough of Bellefonte for the purpose of a Home if such becomes invalidated from any cause then said Real Estate is bequeathed absolutely to my niece Sallie M. Hayes of Bellefonte, Pa., and all legacies that may revert back to estate of E. J. Pruner are for the benefit of the Home for Friendless children provided said Borough of Tyrone and Borough of Bellefonte can carry out the provisions of the will and if they cannot then all legacies that revert back to estate of E. J. Pruner to be vested in Sallie M. Hayes.

The Houses on Penn Avenue Tyrone, Pa., near Payer Mill I give in Trust to Clara R. Moyer she to receive the rents and income from the same during her natural life. She keeping the sum in repair and paying the taxes on the same and at the death of Clara R. Moyer the two houses to revert back to estate of E. J. Pruner and to go to the Home for Friendless Children provided they are corporation of Tyrone and Bellefonte can accept the same and carry out the provisions of this will and otherwise if they cannot the two houses to go my niece Sallie M. Hayes of Bellefonte, Pa.

OLD CLOTHES AND NEW.

By Frank H. Sweet.

Copyrighted, 1907, by Mary McKee.

They were all up in Aunt Clara's room, packing the box, when Jessie Boyd came in at 4 o'clock to ask Carrie what she was going to wear that evening to the musicale. Jessie went upstairs without ceremony. She was Carrie's most intimate friend.

"Oh, there you are!" said Carrie, who was sitting on the foot of the bed with a pile of clothing on her lap. "I've been wondering all afternoon what had become of you. We're packing the box to go to mother's cousin in West Holden. Aunt Clara wants—"

"Where's the bottle of benzine?" asked Agnes, interrupting. "You had it last, Carrie."

"Look on the shelf in my closet," said Carrie. "What are you going to do with the benzine?"

"Clean the spots off that tan cloth cape of mine. I'm ashamed to send it as it is now."

"Oh, you needn't be ashamed to send anything," said Aunt Clara, who was on her knees before the box, spreading some newspapers over the bottom. "They are so poor they'll be glad of everything, no matter how old. You haven't time to clean off spots."

"They can do it for themselves," said Carrie. "Here, auntie, hadn't you better pack these old white shirts in first?"

"Seems to me, Carrie, you could wear that white skirt with the ruffles yourself," remarked Mrs. Brandon, who was pulling over the contents of a trunk she had dragged in from the hall. "It doesn't look at all worn."

"No, but it doesn't hang right," rejoined Carrie. "And it's too short. Besides, I despise a ruffled petticoat."

"Very well," said her mother in a resigned tone. "Put it in. You and Agnes are dreadfully extravagant. I don't wonder your father complains about expenses."

"Here are some old nightdresses," said Mrs. Brandon. "I intended to tear them up for window cloths, but Rachel might patch them up."

"Of course she will," said Aunt Clara, seizing upon the nightdresses eagerly.

She thoroughly enjoyed the packing of this box. She always declared that, no matter what her faults were, no one could accuse her of not being generous.

The trunk yielded, in addition to the nightdresses, an old black alpaca skirt which had been spoiled by paint when the front porch had been given a fresh coat the previous fall, a much worn pair of shoes, a black straw bonnet which had been lying in the tray "for ages," several pairs of hose in sad need of darning, a gray wrapper damaged by moths and a black silk petticoat the ruffles of which were whipped out.

"You could use that silk for lining a grenadine, Frances," said Aunt Clara.

"But I don't expect to have a grenadine this summer," rejoined her sister, and it seems a pity not to put in something decent."

"Well, if you had been to Cousin Rachel's and seen how poor they are," said Clara, "you'd know that anything would be acceptable. Rachel has a real gift for turning and patching too."

"For my part, I'm glad to get rid of my old clothes," said Carrie, "and I vote we send Cousin Rachel a box every year. It's a good deal better than making bundles for the Associated 'Charities to distribute. We know just where the things are going." She crossed her aunt a green surah waist, the seams of which were frayed. "I can wear the skirt around mornings with a percale shirt waist," she added. "All this time Jessie Boyd had stood quietly at the foot of the bed looking on."

"Has your cousin any girls about my age?" she asked, regarding attentively the two faded waists which Aunt Clara was folding together.

"Dear me, yes," answered the lady. "Alice is just your age and Stella a year or so younger. Then there are two little girls of ten and twelve, Amy and Ruth. I stopped over in West Holden for a day in March on my way home from Florida and saw them all. They're pretty girls, too, particularly Alice. I felt so sorry for them. I don't suppose Alice ever had a pretty gown or a bunch of ribbons in her life."

"Then would you mind if—could I send something?" stammered Jessie. "I wouldn't want them to know, of course, but I have several little things, and—"

"Oh, my dear child, yes," Aunt Clara interrupted. "Bring anything you choose; I'll pack it. No matter how old it is, they can make use of it."

Jessie went home at once. In about twenty minutes she returned with a good sized pasteboard box, with a narrow pink ribbon tied around it. On the cover was written, "For Alice."

"You're just in time; I'm ready to have Peter nail up," said Aunt Clara. "Oh, I'm not to see what you're sending. Now, my dear child, you needn't be ashamed of it, whatever it is, for they have so little that anything—only hope Rachel will appreciate it."

trouble I've taken," and she followed Jessie into Carrie's room.

There, on the bed, lay the gown her younger niece was to wear to the musicale. It was a cream china silk, trimmed with lace and white ribbon, and beside it was a pair of high heeled slippers of French kid.

"You'll wear your new china silk waist, of course, Jessie," said Carrie as her friend glanced toward the bed.

Jessie shook her head. "No, I've decided on my blue organdie," she answered quietly and then began to talk of something else.

They were opening the box in the sitting room at West Holden when Alice Brent came in, breathless. She was a slender girl, with soft eyes.

"Has it come?" she cried. "How glad I am to get home in time!"

"Yes, but we weren't going to unpack it until you came," said Stella. "We just wanted to have it all ready. It's a family treat, to be enjoyed together."

Jessie's pasteboard box came out first, as it was on top.

"Something especially for me!" cried Alice. "How lovely! But I won't open it until the last. Take out the other things, mother, dear."

The other things were taken out. One by one Mrs. Brent unfolded them and laid them in a pile on the floor. Not one of the girls ventured to make a remark of any sort, and Alice did not dare glance at Stella.

"That is all, I think, my dears," said the mother as she placed on the pile the white petticoats Carrie had contributed. "I will put all the things in my closet and examine them at my leisure."

"Blessed are they who expect nothing, for they shall not be disappointed," remarked Stella.

"Stella!" Mrs. Brent's voice was one of rebuke. Little Ruth began to weep.

"Here, let's look at my box, Ruthie," said Alice. "We mustn't forget that."

"Probably filled with soiled ribbons and discarded artificial flowers," muttered Stella, in whose black eyes angry tears burned hotly.

With fingers that trembled a little, Alice untied the pink ribbon and removed the cover of the box.

"Oh, oh!" she said. "Mother, look here! Just see!" And then her voice broke and tears filled her eyes.

In the box, neatly folded, lay a pretty white china silk waist trimmed with lace, a pair of perfectly new tan gloves, three dainty handkerchiefs and twelve yards of fine white lawn.

"There's some mistake," said Stella; "this doesn't agree with the rest at all. Probably they will write to have it returned."

"Stella, dear, we couldn't expect them to send things they could use themselves."

"No, I suppose not, and I'm an unthankful wretch. Beggars shouldn't be choosers, but"—and her voice quivered a little—"it isn't in me, somehow, to be a grateful beggar."

Mrs. Brent wrote a well worded letter of thanks to her cousin.

"I must not neglect to tell you," she said in conclusion, "of Alice's pleasure in the contents of the pasteboard box. The pretty gloves and dainty silk waist fitted her perfectly, and she is busy today making up the lawn, which will be her best gown all summer."

Aunt Clara bit her lip as she laid the letter down.

"How ridiculous of Jessie to send new things!" she muttered. "And I was so particular to tell her that anything would do."

No Country Mansions in Cuba.

You are disappointed in not seeing splendid mansions in Cuba. The headquarters of the hacendados consist of groups of low and unlovely buildings, surrounded by ugly walls, but in this respect, as in many others, appearances are deceptive. The frequency of insurrections and the enterprising banditti have made it necessary for planters to protect themselves and their homes as securely as possible, and every hacienda is a fortress capable of being defended by the retainers of the owner who live with him within the walls. Some of the larger plantations are still maintained on the feudal system, but many of them have passed from private ownership into the hands of corporations, and the former proprietors are living in Madrid, Seville, Paris or perhaps New York, while salaried administrators reign in their stead. The patriarchal relationship between the owners and the tillers of the soil is rapidly passing away.—Washington Star.

The First American Cabinet.

When John Hancock was president of congress in 1785 and had his office at 5 Cherry street in New York city, there were only three grand departments of the United States which performed the functions now performed by the president's cabinet. These three "grand departments" were distributed as follows: The Hon. John Jay, secretary for foreign affairs, at 8 Broadway; Hon. Henry Knox, secretary at war, 15 Smith street; the Hon. Walter Livingston, Samuel Osgood and Arthur Lee, commissioners of the treasury. The "office of congress" at that period was at 81 Broadway. When Washington was first elected president in 1789 there were four members of congress from New York, as follows: John Lawrence, John Haring, Melancthon Smith and Peter W. Yates.

"T. B. A.'s Poem."

Thomas Bailey Aldrich was fond of retelling that anecdote of his own boyish daring which appears in his "Ponkapog Papers," to the effect that upon first entering James T. Fields' office in the Old Corner Bookstore his eyes fell upon that kindly editor and publisher's memorandum book, open upon the table. Mr. Fields was absent for the moment, and the youthful poet could not help noticing the impressive list of agenda: "Don't forget to mail R. W. E. his contract," "Don't forget O. W. H.'s proofs," etc., whereupon the "young Milton," who certainly deserved to succeed in his profession, wrote upon the memorandum book, "Don't forget to accept T. B. A.'s poem," and disappeared. The poem was accepted, paid for and, truest kindness of all, as Mr. Aldrich asserted, was never printed. But the resourceful youth never lost his deferential attitude toward the bearers of those famous initialed names that had once preceded his own.—Atlantic.

Spoke Too Soon.

The other day a stranger thus addressed a passenger coming out of the Union station:

"You will excuse me, sir, but isn't this?"

The passenger, without waiting for the other to finish, responded:

"Your umbrella? Well, I presume it is, sir. You will allow me to explain that I picked it up on coming out of the train just now. I have great pleasure in restoring it to the rightful owner."

The stranger expressed his thanks and quickly made off.

A few minutes later the same stranger, with a brand new umbrella tucked carefully under his arm, asked another individual the same question he had intended to ask the man who handed him the umbrella.

"You will excuse me, sir, but isn't this the nearest way to Fifth avenue?"—Kansas City Independent.

"The Almighty Dollar."

A recent headline, "Rule of the Dollar," has suggested the inquiry, Who originated the familiar phrase "the almighty dollar"? It was Washington Irving in "The Creole Village," which he published in 1837. The phrase became so popular and excited so much controversy in consequence of a doubt whether the adjective was irrelevant that its author had to explain eighteen years later that he had intended "no irrelevance, even to the dollar, which he is well aware is becoming daily more and more an object of worship."

"Dollar" is certainly one of the world's great words now, and it is difficult to realize that it only means "valley," the "thal" having been named after the Jochimthal, in Bohemia, in whose valley it was first coined in the sixteenth century.—London Chronicle.

Suicide as Experiment.

A wealthy young man named Leonardo Improta after taking refreshment at a cafe in Naples called for pen and ink and wrote a number of notes and letters. He then quietly took out a small revolver and shot himself in the breast. One of the letters found in his pocket runs:

To the Curious Public—In this century it is impossible voluntarily to leave this world without great efforts being made on the part of newspapers and curious people to discover the cause of the deed. In my case I wished to study metempsychosis at close quarters. Is that not a fine idea? So much has been written on the subject, and it pleases me to discover instead of talking. So I determined to die and see whether I shall be reborn in the form of some animal. It would be delightful to return to this world as a lion or a rat. This is why I wanted to die. ADDIO.

Spilled.

"Publishers insist on spoiling a great many manuscripts, don't they?" said the literary young woman.

"Undoubtedly," answered the bookseller. "A lot of 'em look a heap better typewritten and tied up with a ribbon than they do in print."—Washington Star.

All That Saved Him.

"Yes, sir, he was obliged to go in the snake country, so he took a gallon of Georgia corn along with him."

"And how did he make out?"

"Splendid! Got so full and wobbled so the snakes missed him every time they struck at him!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Made Him Hop.

Hiram Hardapple—What made Grandpa Wheately jump ten feet and forget his rheumatism when the circus parade passed? Was he afraid of the elephants?

Zeke Crawford—No. He heard the steam calliope and thought it was one of those automobiles with the new-fashioned whistles.—Chicago News.

Human Nature.

"Why are guests so habitually discontented?" asked the landlord.

"They're not really discontented," answered the clerk. "They merely want to convey a favorable impression about what they are used to at home."—Washington Star.

The Hymn He Didn't Want.

A young man who was to be married in church to a Miss Way, after a courtship of four years, privately requested the choir not to open the service by singing, "This is the Way I long have sought."

20 Hot Weather Don't for Drivers

Don't fail to read this.

Don't forget that your horse has you to earn a living.

Don't forget that he will repay you for his cost, if you treat him right.

Don't stand him in the sun, when by moving him across the street or around the corner you can find shade.

Don't put the same load on him when the thermometer is at 90 as you do when it is just above the freezing point.

Don't fail to give him water at short intervals.

Don't fail to bathe his head with cold water.

Don't give him whiskey unless advised by a veterinary surgeon.

Don't take any yourself. Whiskey heats the blood, and nine-tenths of the abuses of animals are directly traceable to its use.

Don't fail to wash your horse's mouth out.

Don't fail, if he shows signs of exhaustion, to give him a half hour's rest.

Don't fail, if exhaustion continues, to bathe his entire body with water.

Don't fail, in extreme cases, to apply ice to the head and ice water to the body, so as to reduce the temperature.

Don't lash your horse when he is doing the best he can.

Don't lash him at any time. He'll do better if you are kind to him.

Don't swear at him. Profanity is never commendable.

Don't forget that he is a sentient being, and can feel either the lash of your whip or of your tongue.

Don't forget that he is a faithful servant, and use him as such.

Don't hesitate about employing veterinary aid when your horse is in danger.

Don't take advice from the man in the crowd, who "knows it all," and is always on hand.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they "cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

A Lesson in Health

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

A man who is in perfect health, so he can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr. L. C. Rodgers of Branchton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

The Criminal Year for Men.

If a man is going to commit a crime during his life time the chances are that he will do it at the age of 29. It is a curious fact that statistics have shown that men are more dangerous at this period of his life than any other. The majority of criminals have for some time been of this age. The general supposition is that men have attained the highest development of their mental and physical powers at 29, and they are supposed to be able to distinguish between right and wrong and to realize the consequences liable to follow the indulgence of either.

Next to the age of 29 the greatest number of criminals have been 21 or 27 or 45 years of age. The intervening years in which men do not commit as many crimes have not been explained by expert criminologists who have made investigations to be true, and who are still working on a solution of the problem.

Will Come Home to Roost

The man who says nothing about another unless he can say something good is much more likely to be a good citizen and a good friend than the man who feels it his part of the job to keep telling tales out of school or criticizing other men. The world is so small that he cannot tell when his words will come home to roost. Sometimes they come home when home is not prepared to receive them.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

No Republican Next Week.

As we will all be celebrating the 4th of July next week we will not publish the weekly Republican. But the following week it will be full of what we saw and did. Hope you all will have a royal time.

—E. T. Roan the grocerman on Bishop street is the only merchant in town closing at 6 o'clock in the evenings.

—Fred Montgomery former manager of the Howard Creamery store on High street is now one of the clerks in the Belleville Post Office.

—We heard we were to have a Carnival next week, but that show flew by like all the rest. Belleville seems like a dead one to the show people.

—James Kane is still in a most precarious condition and the doctors have given him up. It seems as though trouble never comes to a family single handed. The entire community sincerely sympathize with these people.

—Harry Covert the right hand man at Col. Reynolds stable found a brown pocket-book containing a small sum of money, the same was lost by Mrs. Clarence Herr and was given to her by Mr. Covert.

—Tyrona has organized and instituted a new order of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. The new organization starts with a membership of 90. It has been named the Bald Eagle Aerie. The Belleville chapter will soon be instituted.

—Company B. had a magnificent drill on Friday evening. Most of the fellows have been issued their uniforms and will soon be ready for camp. They had the pleasure of being drilled on Friday evening by Lieutenant James G. Taylor who recently graduated from West Point.

—The Roosevelt Club has disbanded. At a meeting of the organization held Thursday evening it was decided to discontinue the club. The large pool table which is for sale and the pictures and other paraphernalia belonging to the club were taken to Mr. William Hamilton's home on Lamb street.

Dr. J. Coburn Rogers had a very pleasant visit with his mother Mrs. Evelyn Rogers and with Col. and Mrs. James Coburn at their home on Allegheny street. Dr. Rogers is now permanently located at Freeland Lezner County and has a very large practice. He is getting along splendidly and for a young physician has a very bright and prosperous future before him.

—A couple of years ago Wilbur Wilson was carrying messages at the Western Union Telegraph office in Belleville. He afterwards went into the Nittany Iron Co., as errand boy. He began taking interest in things out there and this week he received a letter from Noah Swaine, formerly of Belleville, to come to come to Philadelphia and take a position in the main office of Rodger, Brown & Co., manufacturers.

—Charley Waring, who has spent the past two years in South America, having a splendid position in connection with the construction of the Panama canal, arrived home in Philadelphia Saturday morning, and is being cordially received by his legion of friends. Mr. Waring is well and favorably known in Belleville. Having served in Co. B during the Spanish American war. He was the tallest man in the company.

—On Thursday a batch of horsemen from Belleville attended the big horse sale at Millheim and out of all that attended only three bought horses. Those who were there from around town were Henry Kline, D. M. Kline, Thomas J. J. Gentzell, Abe Baum, William Carson, John Reardon, Christ Beezer, John Meese, Frank Warfield, A. C. Grove, Frank Nagney, John Grove, Curt Wagner and Frank Grove. Kline, Wagner and Nagney bought horses.

—Well they got back alright—that is Smith and Hetrick, the Altoona boys who went to Pine Grove Mills to get something to eat. Indeed Mrs. Smith was glad they left, she says she never saw two hungrier fellows in all her life. What they didn't eat up there they brought along back to Belleville with them and took it up to Altoona. We are always glad to see you boys but the next time you come, why just kind of tank up a little up there before you come down. We don't mind meeting you half way. Glad you got out to the Fish Hatchery and saw the little minnies.

—This Sunday's Pittsburgh Dispatch will devote one whole page to the National Guards of Penna.

—The family of John Nolan the fireman on the shifter in the Lock Haven yards moved on Monday to Look Haven.

—William Bilger Jr. who has been bookkeeper at the Eckenroth paper store, has accepted a position in the Belleville postoffice.

—Among the eight who took the Civil Service Examination on May 4th, Miss Sara McClure daughter of William McClure got the highest percentage.

—Rev. J. C. Reeser D. D. of Carlisle presiding Elder of the Evangelical church will hold Communion Services in Belleville on Sunday morning.

—The window in E. J. Eckenroth & Bro. paper store has been decorated in a most artistic manner and has caused a great deal of comment by the passers-by.

—A new 5 and 10 cent store will be started the beginning of the week in the vacant room next to C. C. Shueys store. The store will be run by Mr. Vincent Bauer.

—Willis Shuey caught 10 of the prettiest trout Monday, averaging 10 inches apiece. He landed the most of them between the spring and the High street bridge.

—A Pers an Ice Cream and Cake social will be held at the home of Mrs. Emma Harjster on Allegheny street by the Ladies Aid Society of the United Evangelical church.

—On Friday evening class No. 5 of the United Brethren church will hold an ice cream and cake festival in the lecture room of the church. The public is cordially invited to attend.

—When out looking at the pretty windows that have been decorated for the 4th of July, don't fail to take a peep into the Yeager—Davis window and see how beautifully the boys have that fixed up.

—John Boorbeck is always up-to-date in every thing. In order to properly celebrate the 4th of July, he has purchased a large line of fireworks which he has beautifully displayed in his show windows.

—Miss Caroline Anderson one of our compositors is quite ill at her home on Bishop street with appendicitis. It is very likely she will have to undergo an operation. We sincerely hope she will soon be well.

—The show window of Peter Keichline has put on a 4th of July costume, and he has a dandy line of fireworks to select from. The boys are all saving up their pennies to buy fireworks for the great National Holiday.

—Wesley Henderson landed a trout 20 inches long Tuesday morning. It was one of the German brown trout that do so much damage among our smaller trout. This trout was caught out near the spring.

—The Thomas brothers have embarked into the roof painting and lightening business. The boys have been quite busy the last few days, and it seems as though they were going to make it go. We wish you lots of success.

—The Resides Reunion was held at Hunters Park Saturday, a large crowd from Belleville went up on the morning train, a base ball game was played in the afternoon and a festival was held in the evening at the park.

—See the fellow with the two wheel gig kind of defies the ordinance recently passed by the council against fast driving. Now because he is a Councilman's son don't say he can drive at a break neck speed through the streets.

—Wade Cruse who has been the billing clerk at the Central R. R. for the past two years has resigned and has accepted a position at E. J. Eckenroth & Brother paper store. Wade has been very successful in his work at the depot and we hope he will be successful in his other work.

—Mrs. Mary Ann Johnson who has been in the hospital for several months was taken to her Linn street home Saturday noon. Mrs. Johnson has greatly improved and the doctor thinks before she will have good use of her limbs again. We think the change will be of great benefit to Mrs. Johnson.

—The walk from the High street bridge to the spring Sunday evening was crowded with strollers. This is one of the best improvements the council ever made in Belleville and is greatly appreciated by everyone. It is a regular second "Board Walk," like at Atlantic city, so many rolling chairs with crying babies, kind of spoil the pleasure of the promenade.

—The ladies of the Methodist church have already pre-empted the date of Saturday, June 29th, as the day on which they will hold an exchange for the sale of bread, cakes, pies, Potatoe salad and all the good things you will need for Sunday dinner. The exchange will be held in the room formerly occupied by Mr. Roan the grocerman, corner of Bishop and Allegheny street.

—The U. S. mails were exceptionally heavy on Tuesday, on account of being J. C. Rumberger's birthday. He received several mailbags full of socks. John says he received every thing from "Balmoralis to Barber pool stockings," he is now seriously thinking of starting a cheap store down near the depot, to supply all people with rainy day socks, in case they get their wet at the park. John will tell them at a bargain, he only got 68 pair.

—Bill Ryan landed a large trout Wednesday out back of the old mill that measured 20 inches and weighed 4 lbs.

—The Muss r House at Millheim was sold Wednesday to George W. Clark of Williamsport. The price paid was $2700.

—Prof. [Rose, of Harrisburg; Miss Buttrif, New Cumberland; Miss Brugger, State Capitol; J. E. Brogger, Fleming; drove from Unionville to State College and then to Belleville and took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rumberger, and then drove back to Unionville in the evening. John was all dressed up in his best bib and tucker, and would have looked like a sport, if he hadn't of fell in that puddle of water on the school commons, and then he got that $100 panama all over mud and lost his $6.00 mercurum pipe.

TWO CENT RAILROAD RATES.

To go into Effect on all Roads After July 1.

Passenger rates on all railroads of the United States will be reduced to two cents a mile. The lowering of the price and the complete abolition of the old three-cent rate will begin on July 1. This was the decision reached in Chicago on Friday by the leading railroad presidents of all the western and trans-continental roads. It was not a formal agreement but it is especially binding, for two large roads doing a trans-continental business are said to have served an ultimatum to others that they would put the rate into effect immediately. They said that no further fight would be made on the two-cent laws already passed.

Bussler had a Banquet Wednesday Night.

Frank R. Bussler Superintendent of the Electric Light Works had a stag party at his home on Water street on Wednesday evening. A bunch of his friends were invited to partake of the good things he had prepared to eat. The interior of the home was beautifully decorated for the occasion. In the dining room different colored lights were arranged in a most artistic manner over the table. Mr. Bussler certainly understands how to entertain his friends and the affair on Wednesday evening was a success in every way.

Tyrona Bridal Couple in Belleville.

At the paragon of the First M. E. church Thursday morning at 11:45, Miss Freda Lewis and Homer Keatly, both of Tyrona, were united in marriage by Rev. John H. Dauberty. The bride wore a beautiful cream mohair, and was attended by Miss Myrtle Miles. The best man was the bride's brother, Edgar Lewis. Miss Lewis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lewis of West Tenth street, and is well and favorably known by a large circle of friends. The groom is an industrious young man and is highly esteemed by all who know him. The young couple left at noon for a short wedding tour, after which they will reside in Tyrona. Their many friends wish them a happy and successful future. Mr. and Mrs. Keatly are guests of Mrs. Charles Rine on Thomas street.

Drew Large Crowds.

Thornton's Carnival company left Lock Haven on Sunday for Philadelphia where they show this week. Manager Thornton states that his shows drew the largest crowds in that city of any place yet visited. The various booths were also liberally patronized and all report good business for the week. Although the weather was quite threatening and unsettled Saturday evening over 3,000 people were on the grounds and enjoyed the shows. The Ferris wheel and merry-go-round were crowded all evening.

Struck Blind in an Instant.

Charley Koonits who has been employed by Archibald Allison at his plumbing shop went entirely blind on Saturday. Some weeks ago his eye became affected and he noticed that the sight was leaving it, and on Saturday they both went stone blind. He will be taken to the Wills Eye Hospital, at Philadelphia and will receive the best medical treatment possible, and we sincerely hope his sight will return to him.
